Firm In Stand On Tax Issue

Committee in Rejection of a Move to Offer Substitute Plan

By William F. Arbogast
WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—(P)—House Ways and Means committee Democrats refused today to hear testimony on a Republican-proposed substitute for the administration's $4,000,000,000 excess profits tax plan.

By vote of 15 to 10—the party division on the committee—the group rejected a motion by Rep. Reed of New York that businessmen witnesses be allowed to give their views on alternative proposals.

Reed, top Republican on the committee, has proposed a substitute plan that would let a taxpayer compute his excess profits tax by applying a 27 per cent tax on normal net income and a 28 per cent surtax on excess income over $25,000.

The administration proposes a 75 per cent tax on profits determined to be excessive when compared with 1946-1949 earnings.

Today's committee vote reiterated a previous ruling that witnesses must confine their testimony to excess profits taxation.

Within that limitation, business spokesmen opposing an excess profits tax have confined their testimony to suggestions on how such a tax should be framed if there must be one.

Reed made his motion as Charles J. Sligh, Jr., chairman of the taxation committee of the national association of manufacturers, started to testify.

Claim It Unworkable

The NAM is opposing excess profits taxation on the grounds it is unworkable, inflationary and unfair.

The association favors fixing the standard corporation income tax rate at 38 per cent—18 per cent normal and 20 per cent surtax—and adding to that tax liability an emergency defense tax of 20 to 30 per cent.

Sligh said the NAM plan would "produce fully as much revenue" as would the administration plan and would be more workable.

Sligh was one of 14 witnesses listed to testify today, all of them billed as opponents of excess profits taxation.

Main support for the administration plan has come from organized labor and from Treasury Secretary Snyder. The public hearings will end Wednesday, after which the committee will go into closed session and try to draft a bill for consideration during the short session of Congress starting next Monday.

For Pay-and-Go

Like other industry spokesmen who preceded him, Sligh asserted that business wants to carry its share of the defense-swollen tax load, is against redink financing and agrees with President Truman that the defense program must be put on a pay-as-you-go basis as nearly as possible.

"This means a substantial increase in taxation all along the line and a strict pruning of non-military spending," he said.

But taxation of corporation profits held to be abnormally high as proposed by the president is the wrong approach, he said.

An excess profits tax, Sligh said, "becomes a special levy on profits in general, using the single criterion of size in relation to some arbitrarily determined base yardstick. The source or origin of the profit is no longer considered."

Sligh claimed an excess profits tax is economically unsound and administratively unworkable and he said it would add to the pressures of inflation by removing the incentive for sound business management.

The NAM has suggested an alternative revenue program which would include an excise, or sales tax on almost everything except food and food products; more revenue from individual income taxes; and a corporation defense tax which would amount to a flat percentage increase in the corporation income tax.

Sudden Passing

Jolly P. Hurtt died unexpectedly this morning just as he was preparing to begin his day's work as a linotype operator for the Democrat. He dropped dead just a few seconds before he was to seat himself at the linotype he operated.

Jolly P. Hurtt Died Today Unexpectedly

End to Veteran Printer as Ready To Start Work

Jolly P. Hurtt, 71, a veteran newspaper printer, died shortly before 7:00 o'clock this morning in the composing room of the Democrat-Capital. He was prominent in Masonic circles in Missouri as well as Sedalia. Death was attributed to cerebral hemorrhage.

Mr. Hurtt was employed as a linotype operator on the Democrat. He had arrived at the newspaper office a few minutes before 7:00 o'clock. He went into the composing room hung up his coat and hat and then walked over to a radiator where he was standing to get warm. Other printers arriving spoke to Mr. Hurtt and he spoke to them, but did not indicate he was not feeling well.

A minute or so later Charles Behrens, the foreman of the composing room and John Lyon, another printer, walked in and found Mr. Hurtt lying on the floor. He was unconscious and died a few minutes later. Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher was called and pronounced Mr. Hurtt dead.

Mr. Hurtt had a colorful career as a printer starting in the business when he was but thirteen years old. He started carrying papers for the old Sedalia Democrat when it was located on the east side of Ohio avenue in the 300 block and later went into the printing part of the newspaper business. He remained with the Democrat until 1911, after which he traveled for the Interstate company for several years as a salesman and erector of their equipment.

Formerly in Business

At one time for about a year he was in the printing business with Will Brown, who is now with the Hurlbut Printing Co., on South Lamine avenue. He then went with the Thomas Printing Co., on East Second street, and was manager of this concern as well as being financially interested in the business.

When the Thomas Printing Co. was sold, Mr. Hurtt went with the Botz Printing and Stationery Co., 211 South Lamine avenue, where he worked for several years. He then went with the Hurlbut Printing Co., on East Fifth street, and on February 11, 1946, he returned to the employ of the Sedalia Democrat as an operator.

Had Fifty Year Pin

Mr. Hurtt received his fifty year pin as a member of the Typographical Union about two years ago.

He is one of the outstanding members of the Masons in Sedalia and in Missouri, and has held every office in each of the Masonic organizations of which he was a member in Sedalia except the Sedalia Shrine club. He was on his fiftieth year as a Mason (Please turn to Page 6, Column 3)

Dog Brings in Watches And Diamond Rings

FRENCH LICK, Ind., Nov. 20—(P)—A beagle hound came out of the woods near the French Lick gold course and dropped a handkerchief-wrapped bundle at the feet of its owner, Mrs. Paul Brace. The bundle contained watches and diamond rings stolen from a French Lick store recently.

A man who confessed the theft told of hiding the jewelry near the hotel, but police had never been able to find it.

Classification Talk is Given Before Rotary

Guy Peabody Gives It at Luncheon At the Bothwell

The Rotary program today noon at Bothwell hotel was a classification talk by Guy Peabody on "Public Accounting." Mr. Peabody said that public accounting is now one of the major professions and the laws governing it are very strict. There are some two dozen services handled by a public accountant, he said. Among them, during part of the year, is income taxes.

The meeting was presided over by the president K. U. Love and invocation was by Rev. Glen Lindsey.

Rev. D. Warren Neal was song leader and the program chairman was Tom Henry, who introduced the speaker.

Emory Bowman, chairman of the fireside meetings, announced the following meetings: November 27, the club has been divided into four groups and the meetings will be at the homes of D. S. Lamm, Ray Lippard, E. W. Thompson and L. Lyle Brown, all four objects will be discussed. Each chairman will begin his meeting at 7:30 o'clock and end it at 8:45 o'clock. The entire club will then assemble for a Rotary ceremony and social hour.

Guy Peabody has been appointed chairman of the "On to Conference Committee."

Guests introduced by Stansel DeWoe were: Bill Valley, guest of Z. Lyle Brown; Herb Studer, guest of Jack Cunningham; Max Schwabe, guest of Ray Lippard; Rotarian Troy Haggard of Brawley, Calif.

P. E. Sillers introduced the junior Rotarians for the month of November; Gene Williams, Smith-Cotton; James Menefee, Sacred Heart and Neil McBroom, Central Business college.

Helps to Swell The Chest Fund

"Bob" Sherman, chairman of the Community Chest Drive in Pettis county, has received the sum of $257.50 from the Hous-tonia community. This is considered a very good response in answer to the first call ever made for the Community Chest from that district.

Mrs. J. W. Rissler served as chairman of the drive in Houstonia and workers on her committee were Miss Mary E. Tevebaugh, Murray Wood, James Blackburn, E. B. Killion, Mrs. Fred Neef and Mrs. Artie Nutt, all of Houstonia.

Mr. Sherman has received to date from over the entire county the total of $932.74. There are still some townships to be reported.

Bible to Church From President

GRANDVIEW, Mo., Nov. 20—(P)—A new Grandview Baptist church was dedicated yesterday with a Bible given by President Truman featured at the services.

The President sent the sheepskin-bound Bible to the pastor, the Rev. Welbern Bowman, last August and suggested that it be used in the new church.

Mr. Truman's sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman, presented the Bible to the congregation.

The new church replaces the one the President attended many years.

Two Lives Are Lost by Flood In California

Thousands Are Driven Out of Homes by Water

FRESNO, Calif., Nov. 20—(P)—New storms were moving in waves upon central California today, heightening the menace of floods in foothill and valley areas.

Thousands had been driven from their homes. Damage to property, crops, highways and livestock was counted in the millions.

In Visalia, Tulare county, four members of a family burned to death today as fire destroyed their house. Most of the fire department's pumps were busy at the time trying to keep flood waters from ruining goods in store basements.

Two other deaths had been reported earlier, directly attributable to the floods.

The weather bureau announced: "Although there may be temporary breaks in the storm, no permanent clearing is seen at the present time."

FRESNO, Calif., Nov. 20—(P)—Perhaps the worst flood in central California history took two lives, drove thousands from their homes and damaged millions of dollars worth of property, crops, highways and livestock.

Mountain streams, normally little more than rivulets, bloated into raging torrents under the impact of days of driving rain and melting snow from the Sierra.

Some communities were inundated. Others were threatened by weakening dikes. Roads and bridges were washed out.

Countless rescue missions kept casualties to a minimum.

The weather bureau warned that a new storm would pour more rain over north central California today, the eighth day of the record-breaking downpours that dumped as much as 10 inches of rain in a 24 hour period in foothills east of Fresno.

Unseasonal warm weather in the Sierra thawed the snowpack. The Red Cross estimated the churning, murky waters has forged at least 2,000 families from their homes in central California.

Drowned in Bed

Frank Irwin, 87, was found drowned in bed in his cottage on the rambling Sacramento river. Jimmy Johnson, 75-year old pensioner, died of a heart attack as he was being rescued from his home near Kernville.

As flood waters surged over the already-drenched area from Sacramento to Bakersfield Gov. Earl Warren ordered all state department heads to alert their staffs for all-out assistance.

Visalia, already facing complete inundation as the rising Kaweah river surged against the Cutler park dike, and other lower valley towns feared new river crests.

Parts of Kernville and Isabella were under four feet of water. Some 1,000 persons were homeless in that area alone. The Kern river completely washed out the $200,000 state Kern river fish hatchery.

The Kings river smashed a coffee dam at the Pine Flat construction project 25 miles east of here and marooned 34 persons on a small island near Piedra. They were rescued Saturday night by motorboats secured by lines to a power cable spanning the stream.

An estimated 75,000 to 100,000 turkeys drowned in the Centerville area. One rancher said he lost 100 head of cattle, sheep and hogs.

The full force of the Kern river crest hit Bakersfield last night. Supervisor Charles Salzer said he thought the worst was over—barring new rains. The river level fell 6-12 inches.

Yosemite national park was virtually isolated. Waskouts and downed trees blocked state highways 41 and 140.

Hunger Strike Of Killer Ends

Mass Slayer is Constantly Under Surveillance

WOODBURY, N.J., Nov. 20—(P)—Ernest Ingenito, dark-haired young appliance salesman who killed five persons and wounded four in a savage effort to wipe out his estranged wife's family, ended today the hunger strike he began Saturday in a prison cell.

Warden William Mollineaux of the Gloucester county prison said Ingenito, 26, ate breakfast this morning and appeared in a "very good mood." The breakfast, Mollineaux added, included prunes, fruit juice, coffee and toast.

Ingenito, steadily chain-smoking cigarettes, was talking freely with guards, but has not discussed the killings, the warden said. The conversation is mostly about his work as a television salesman and repairman, and about other jobs. Ingenito, a world war two veteran, is not permitted to see any visitors, and has not asked to see an attorney.

The prisoner had refused food since he was jailed after the 20-minute massacre Friday night.

The slim young gunman has been under the constant surveillance of two guards at all times, the warden said, partly because of an attempt he made to take his own life with a razor a few moments before he was seized by state police after an automobile chase. The wounds he inflicted in his last wrist were superficial.

Ingenito has made no further effort to commit suicide, Mollineaux said, but "we are taking no chances." He added:

"He's a very quiet prisoner. He's highly nervous and upset but he still refuses to talk. He sleeps well. He's what we call a sleeper, a prisoner who can hit the sack no matter how bad things look for him."

Admits Firing Shots

Ingenito has admitted he fired the shots Friday night which ended the lives of his father-in-law and mother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Mazzoli; his estranged wife's grandmother, Mrs. Teresa Pioppi; his wife's aunt, Mariana Pioppi, and her uncle, John Pioppi.

Wounded in Ingenito's gun-wielding tour of three homes were: His wife, Teresa, 23; her uncle, Frank Mazzoli; his wife, Hilda, and a nine-year-old cousin, Jean Pioppi.

All are in the Newcomb hospital, Vineland, N.J. Frank Mazzoli is listed as critical, the others out of danger.

As sorrowing relatives prepared for a mass funeral tomorrow, Mrs. Ingenito talked yesterday to reporters from her hospital bed.

"I don't know why they didn't shoot him when they got him," she said. "I hope he gets the electric chair. He knew what he was doing all right."

In his only statement to authorities, Ingenito said "I did it. I did it because my wife wouldn't let me see my kids."

Beyond that brief declaration, he has refused to say why he burst into three homes—two in Piney Hollow, N.J., and one at Minotola six miles away—on Friday night and mowed down his victims with two of four guns he carried.

Gloucester County Prosecutor Milton E. Hannold said Ingenito—who has been held without bail on five murder counts for grand jury action—has been examined by two state psychologists.

One of those was Dr. Robert S. Garber, superintendent of the New Jersey state hospital for the insane at Trenton—where Howard Unruh has been committed since he massacred 13 persons in Camden, N.J., on Sept. 6, 1949.

American Troops In But Two Miles of The Manchurian Border

Chapel Damaged By Fire

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Nov. 20—(P)—Damage has been estimated at $25,000 as the result of a fire at the Beverly Hills Baptist chapel here yesterday. Firemen confined the blaze to the front vestibule, basement and second-floor nursery.

Paint Interior At Buena Vista

The Buena Vista board of directors of the Court House, Judges J. V. Kesterson and W. A. Marlin, of the County Court and Mrs. G. Patrick Darnell, representing the state welfare department, in session with them.

Routine matters were taken care of; plans were made for Christmas and an contract awarded for painting and decorating the interior of the home, which work was started this morning.

Phone Strike Ended Sunday

Over 33,000 of Workers Return To Their Jobs

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(P)—More than 33,000 telephone employees return to work across the country today under compromise settlements that ended their 11-day strike against units of the huge Bell telephone system.

The agreements were reached yesterday in New York and Detroit, where federal mediators had been seeking peace in the pay and contract dispute.

The big break came here at the end of a 25-hour marathon bargaining session between Bell's Western Electric Co., and division 6 of the CIO Communications Workers of America (CWA), representing 11,000 equipment installers.

Within a few hours, parallel settlements were announced here between Western Electric and 5,000 maintenance and warehousemen in division 18; in Detroit between the Michigan Bell Telephone Co., and 17,000 members of CWA division 15; and in Haverhill, Mass., between Western Electric and 700 division 68 plant workers.

The companies both are subsidiaries of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., the parent Bell corporation.

Considered Fair

The union claimed a strike victory. The companies called the settlements "fair"—although "costly" in the Michigan dispute. In the compromise, both sides actually receded from their hard-and-fast strike positions.

In the key Western Electric dispute, the union had demanded a 15-cent hourly raise, but accepted a series of increases from nine to 14 cents. These averaged, by company figures, 11.3 cents—or slightly better than Western Electric's last offer of 11 1/4 cents. Previous wages averaged from $1.55 to $1.62 an hour.

The union came closer to its wishes in length of contract, accepting a 15-month term instead of the one-year pact it desired. The union also won some other issues.

Western Electric said its raises would cost about $4,000,000 a year. Michigan Bell said its increases of from $3 to $5 a week would cost $9,400,000 a year and call for a rate boost. The new Michigan contract also is for 15 months.

Wet Leaves Hazard For Motorists

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20—(P)—A wet leaf is to the automobile what a banana is to the pedestrian.

That's the phrase the keystone automobile club used today in a warning to motorists.

Wet leaves, an auto club release continued, "are as slippery as an eel and treacherous as a rattlesnake."

A quick stop by a motorist on a paving coated with wet leaves, the release explained, produces much the same effect "as may be noted when a portly person trods unsuspectingly on a banana skin. Both vehicle and pedestrian are apt to go out of control."

Business Proceeds as Usual In The Trade of Retailers

By Rader Winget (For Sam Dawson)

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(P)—Businessmen's ears ring with discussions of defense controls, but their reactions split sharply.

Reactions range all the way from shocked disbelief to enthusiastic compliance with the new order of things brought on by the Korean war.

There is even an element of bemused tolerance indicated toward the whole thing, the attitude that if we all keep quiet our troubles will just go away.

The stock market, for example, is attracting investors and traders who are seeking securities so avidly that prices on the average have been pushed to a 20-year high.

This demand for securities continues despite statements that new and higher taxes on business are imperative, that business must adapt itself to defense regulations, that production in free and competitive markets must give way to production for defense with profits limited. But the stock market continues strong in the expectation that the nation's future business will be profitable as usual.

Possibly Will Delay Entry Into Hyesanjin Until On Tuesday

SEOUL, Nov. 20—(P)—American infantry paced by tanks surged down a snow-covered North Korean valley late today within two miles of the Manchurian border.

A 10th Corps spokesman said leading units of the U.S. Seventh Division were only two miles from their goal, the border town of Hyesanjin, at 4 p.m. (2 a.m. EST).

He said the troops probably would wait until Tuesday before pressing into the town.

Red resistance, sporadic to light earlier, dwindled to "practically none" by late afternoon, the officer said.

British commandos moved up to join U. S. marines in a push through the central mountains around Changlin reservoir.

Simultaneously the commander of the Philippines battalion in the U. N. force asked that his outfit be returned home because it was not fighting as a unit. The Filipinos are guarding a vital supply line with the U. S. 18th airborne regiment.

U. S. ambassador John J. Muccio, just returned from Washington, said "the new menace" (Red China) would not check the determination of U. N. governments "to see this thing through." He added, "Korea's friends are on the march."

The big march on the battlefronts was by the Seventh division spearhead toward the border.

Advances Elsewhere

Advances also were reported in three other sectors:

U. S. marines moved two miles up the east shore of the great Changlin reservoir of central Korea. South Koreans fought up the northeast coast under cover of American naval guns. And the ROK (Republic of Korea) Second corps advanced up to three miles unopposed on the right flank of the northwest front, where Reds fought stubbornly until Sunday.

The rapid sweep toward the border carried the Seventh division's 17th regimental combat team through a winter wonderland. Tanks clanked between the hills covered with glistening snow. Fluffy white clouds sailed overhead in a bright blue sky.

Red Rout Sunday

The expected battle of Kapsan turned into a Red rout Sunday morning. A sharp fight on the hills outside the walled city left scores of North Korean dead. Many were crushed by the treads of tanks on the hillsides where they had planned to ambush the American column.

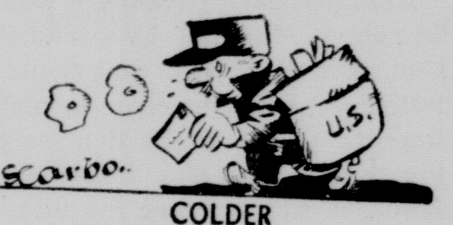

But the trap was disclosed by two Reds. Terrified by the approaching tank column, they jumped from their foxholes and ran.

The American tanks opened up on the hillsides where the Reds were dug in. As U. S. infantrymen closed in, the tanks lumbered across a stream, up the hillside and over the Reds' rock barricades.

Associated Press correspondent Tom Stone, only newsman with the 17th during the battle, said it lasted only 30 minutes. Sixty-five Reds surrendered when their trap collapsed. Others fled.

"They figured they could ambush the hell out of us," said Col. Herbert B. Powell, commander of (Please Turn To Page 6 Col. 5)

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

U. S. Cities Far Ahead Of Washington in Preparing For A-Bomb Attack;

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1950, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON.—With Russia now building up a stockpile of approximately 28 atomic bombs and with the cold war turned into a hot war in one part of the world, the federal government is lagging far behind American cities in preparing against atomic attack.

As of today, President Truman still has not appointed a chief for civil defense, and present civil defense planning is temporarily in the hands of Stuart Symington's brother-in-law, likable but inexperienced J. J. Wadsworth.

Meanwhile, the American Municipal Association has prepared a confidential survey of civil defense plans showing considerable criticism of Washington for dragging its feet. The survey also shows that 150 key cities are going ahead with their own defense plans, with two cities—Norfolk, Va., and San Mateo, Calif., claiming to be 75 per cent ready for atomic attack. Manchester, Conn., estimates it is 70 per cent prepared and Uniontown, Pa., 65 per cent.

Meanwhile, many large cities, such as San Francisco, San Diego, Schenectady and Wichita, have hired full-time civil defense directors, while other smaller towns—Niagara Falls, N.Y., Jackson, Mich., and Wilmington, N.C.—are relying on volunteer directors.

Uniontown, Pa., has organized its beauty shops as first-aid centers in case of emergency. San Angelo, Tex., is ready to draft its taxicabs and bus system for emergency evacuation. El Paso, Tex., has made a pact with Juarez across the Mexican border for mutual aid in case of atomic attack.

Evacuation Centers

A few smaller cities near big cities are voluntarily setting up machinery to handle evacuees. For example, Bloomington, Ind., is preparing to care for evacuees from near-by Indianapolis and Louisville. Kingston and Oswego, N.Y., also regard themselves as evacuation depots for bigger New York cities.

Evacuation plans have also been worked out by San Diego and Southgate, Calif., Mount Vernon and New Rochelle, N.Y., Dearborn and Wyandotte, Mich., Salisbury, N.C., Atlanta, Ga., Fargo, N.D., and Newton, Mass.

One of the best-prepared cities is Schenectady, N.Y., which has even figured the bridge loads and clearances of emergency, escape routes from the city. Schenectady is also preparing to recruit volunteer air raid wardens, stretcher bearers and rescue squads.

At least three cities—Seattle, Chicago, and Washington, D.C.—have staged mock bombings to test their civil defense systems. San Diego, Calif., and Revere, Mass., are using television to explain civil defense to the public. Many other cities, such as St. Paul, Minn., Richmond, Calif., and Auburn, N.Y., are putting out their own disaster manuals.

The chief complaint from the cities is lack of coordination and cooperation from the federal government. Though only 50 per cent of the cities commented on civil defense needs, "31 per cent believed the primary deficiency is lack of detailed information and plans from the higher level of government. Responsibility for lack of information was generally laid upon the federal government rather than the state government."

"Many cities feel keenly the lack of training manuals. Many felt that the federal government has been inordinately slow in producing material. Criticism of state-local relations hinges generally upon the lack of guidance in the coordination of local civil defense programs and irritation induced by the duplication of state and local civil defense efforts."

Lady on Supreme Court??

It seems a little early to talk about it, but female admirers of Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, first lady ever to be assistant secretary of defense, have another promotion in mind for her. They want her to be the first woman ever appointed to the Supreme Court.

Delightful Mrs. India Edwards of the Democratic national committee, who probably has put more women in office than anyone else in history, has this in the back of her mind—later, when the time is ripe.

Actually, Mrs. Rosenberg was recommended to Secretary Marshall by Marshall's close friend, Gen. Bedell Smith, now chief of Central Intelligence, who has come to play an increasingly important part in the defense picture. Interesting thing about Mrs. Rosenberg is not only her feminine support, but the way hardboiled businessmen root for her. Though Republicans are already gunning against her confirmation, she has such staunch supporters as the Rockefellers and the R. H. Macy Company.

Also among her boosters are a couple of the big broadcasting networks which handed down orders at the time of her appointment that favorable stories were to be broadcast about her.

NOTE—Mrs. India Edwards not only wants a woman appointed to the Supreme Court but is opposed to Attorney General Howard McGrath being elevated to the court. She thinks he has loafed too much as attorney general.

Paradoxical McCarran Act

Few people realize all the problems Senator

Pat McCarran has created by his hurriedly written, so-called anti-Communist law.

For instance, Romula Betancourt, ex-president of Venezuela and long-time resident of the United States, recently flew to Havana to organize a western hemisphere peace conference in support of the United States. Betancourt, who ranks among the 10 top men in Latin-American prestige, wanted to offset the phony Communist propaganda for peace. However, his government is now a dictatorship, which, under the McCarran act, cannot send its citizens to the U.S.A.

So when Betancourt went to the American embassy in Havana to apply for a re-entry visa, he was denied one under the McCarran act. Finally the State Department permitted this good friend of the U.S.A. to come to Washington for 30 days only to close his house, then move to Havana permanently.

The State Department is also disturbed because Emilio Suri Castillo, speaker of the Cuban House of Representatives and secretary general of the powerful Cuban sugar workers, has now been denied a visa to the United States because he was once a member of the Cuban Communist party for a brief period in the 1930's.

The paradoxical fact is that Speaker Castillo is the author of Cuba's own anti-commie law, which he wrote partly at the request of American officials.

But now, under the McCarran act, Castillo can't come to Washington.

Indo-China is the Hot Spot,
Not Korea, Say Some Experts

By Bruce Blossart

The Chinese Communists have turned down a United Nations invitation to discuss before the Security Council their intervention in the Korean war.

There can't be any great surprise in this. They could not have denied the presence of their troops in Korea, since they have broadcast appeals for "volunteers" for all the world to hear. They could only have tried to offer some excuse for their action.

But all but one of their possible excuses would not have carried much weight in the UN. There is evidence that a good many nations, including the United States, would have given consideration to the Reds' obvious interest in the power dams on the Korean side of the Manchurian border.

Yet the chances are Mao Tse-tung has other aims as well, which would not stand UN scrutiny. As many observers have suggested, he may want to prolong the war through the bitter winter, to help Reds generally to regain some of their lost prestige in the Far East.

He couldn't easily talk of such things to the Security Council. If he chose to speak only of China's worries over power dams, he might find himself embarrassed by a UN promise to safeguard his interests there. Then he'd have no course but to get out of Korea.

That the Reds have decided not to come indicates pretty strongly that the dams are only part of the story. And they much prefer to keep the rest of the world guessing as to what the other parts are.

That the Reds have decided not to come indicates pretty strongly that the dams are only part of the story. And they much prefer to keep the rest of the world guessing as to what the other parts are.

As Communist forces continue to advance in Indo-China to the south, a new theory is emerging that the whole Korean operation may, in the Reds' view, be merely a diversion. The real show is Indo-China, some experts are saying.

According to this version, everything the Communists are doing outside that French-defended land is aimed at distracting the United States, Britain and other potential allies of France.

It's argued that for the future of all Southeast Asia Indo-China is vastly more important than Korea or Tibet or Formosa. Indo-China in Red hands might open up India, Burma, Malaya and Indonesia to relatively easy Communist conquest.

Since no western nation has any wish to invade Red China and get involved in a war with her hordes of soldiers, Mao is definitely in a position to thumb his nose at the West. We have no choice but to go on guessing his motives.

But on the chance that he is trying to distract us and scatter our strength, we can at least deny him the opportunity of making Formosa an effective part of his smoke-screen.

Though he refused to send anyone to the UN to discuss Korea, he has agreed to dispatch a delegation to talk about Formosa. It's plain any such representatives will only unleash a propaganda bombardment against the West, designed to suggest the U. S. has "invaded" Chinese soil. Aside from its general political effect, this could be part of the technique of diversion.

We should refuse to play the game. We should insist that any Chinese Reds who come before the UN talk first about Korea and secondly about Formosa. If they will not, they should be denied an opportunity to employ the UN for their own imperial aims. They should be sent back to Peking without gaining the UN's ear for so much as a minute.

Our strategic position with respect to Mao is not strong. The least we can do is to take advantage of such aces as we have.

A Colorful Battle

The great video battle of the century goes to court in Chicago. Millions hang on the verdict. Shall we have color television by the mechanical CBS system, which the FCC has approved, or by the NBC electronic process, which isn't quite ready?

Well, it's a swell fight and maybe we can be forgiven for giving it so much attention. The competing attractions in the international military and political arenas are pretty grim.

• So They Say

Every thinking American must realize how close we are to World War III and what that will mean. America, as we know it, will be gone forever, because no one can win World War III morally and financially.

THE ATTITUDE AND ITS OUTCOME OR REWARD

We have said that the first step in abundant living is receptivity. What is received? The renounced in spirit receive the Kingdom of God; the mourners receive comfort; and the meek inherit the earth. The first attitude is general—the renounced in spirit; and the reward is general—the Kingdom of God. But note that the verse does not say that they belong to the Kingdom of God. It says that the Kingdom of God belongs to them—its powers are behind them; its resources are at their disposal; its very authority and power are at their command. They are universe-backed.

In the second the attitude is specific—those that mourn; and the reward is specific—they shall be comforted. But the comfort is con—"together," and fortis—"brave" so the meaning is "brave together." There is a sense of human-Divine togetherness; a sense of adequacy, not because of ones strength, but because of one's Resources. You and Christ are afraid of nothing, because you can use everything.

In the third the attitude is again specific—the meek; and the reward is specific—the inherit, the earth. The meek are not the weak—they are the trained, the disciplined, the receptive. They inherit not heaven only, but the earth. The meek-minded scientist inherits the world of fact. Every great scientist is humble—has to be, for if he were proud, know-all in his attitudes, Nature would shut up like a clam and reveal nothing to him. When the French people voted as to the greatest Frenchman, they passed by Napoleon and fastened upon Pasteur, whose discoveries benefited so many. The meek inherited the world of affections and reverence. If the American people should vote on the greatest American, they would undoubtedly fasten upon Lincoln, the great emancipator, the humble-souled liberator of the oppressed. The earth belongs to the meek because it won't respond to the proud, the vaunting. The earth is made in its inner constitution to work in he Christian way, and hence none but the Christian meek can inherit it.

Napoleon said: 'There are only two forces in the world: the spirit and the sword. And the spirit always conquers the sword.'

O God, I see that the earth rests in the hands of those who try to take it by force and pride and domination. It doesn't belong to them. It belongs to Thy Son and to those who meekly follow Him. Help me to inherit Him and then I shall inherit the earth and all that is in it. Amen.

WASHINGTON — Q. I am interested in enlisting in the Air Force nursing corps. I have a son six years old, but I wonder if my mother is made legal guardian of the child, will I be free to enlist?

A. The Air Force provides this answer: "Females who have a dependent or dependents under 18 years of age or a child or children under 18 years of age are not eligible to apply for appointment under the provisions of the regulations. The fact that the applicant does not have legal custody of the child or children will not remove the disqualification."

Q. When I was in service a few years ago my father got in an accident and lost his arm. I was discharged to help take care of the family. Does this mean that I have to give a certain amount of time or part of my salary to the support of my parents? And how long does this obligation last?

A. If he is physically fit there doesn't appear to be any grounds for deferment. There might be a question of his citizenship. You should have requested the deferment when he filled out his questionnaire.

Q—What was the seating capacity of the Colosseum at Rome?

A—This amphitheater seated eighty to ninety thousand, with standing room for an additional twenty thousand.

Q—How many California mountain peaks exceed 10,000 feet?

Q—Are the toy deer of the Florida Keys found elsewhere?

A—The tiny deer—rarely more than 27 inches in height—live only in the Florida Keys and will not breed in captivity.

The term "white elephant" came from the ingenious scheme of a Siamese king, who presented white elephants to persons he wished to ruin. Since the animals were sacred, they could not be disposed of, and their upkeep eventually led to bankruptcy of the owner.

COPR. 1950 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THEY had been seasick all night getting there. All but Buck Sergeant Edward Engstrom. The responsibility of commanding a squad had doubtless lifted his mind above the internal turmoil stirred up by the sea.

In the lee of the island there was a calm approach to the beach. By the pre-dawn's early light it did not look like a very good place to land. Geysers of sand spouted into the air every few seconds as if belched up by noisy subterranean monsters. The enemy artillery hidden in the steaming jungle was checking on the range.

"Eddie," said Private Jake Snyder, tightening his belt again—"this is the fourth time, 'I don't know for sure what's the matter with me but I guess I'm scared pantsless.'"

"Who ain't?" conceded Sergeant Eddie. He wished he could put his hand under his chin to steady it. "Put your mind on sompin else. Pretend like the beach there is the shore of Lake Michigan near Westwaygo where we used to go swimmin'."

"You can take Westwaygo and stuff it under your neckties," snapped Pfc. Joseph Smith.

Smith, the only man in the squad who hadn't belonged to the national guard company when it had been mustered in from the Michigan town of Westwaygo, was a replacement from Syracuse, Pfc. Joseph Smith never answered to that name except at roll-call. He was known to his immediate comrades in arms as Joe College. He had attended Columbia University a couple of years before his draft board had snatched him away to study geopolitics by the laboratory method.

"Only thing I wish," said Sergeant Eddie. "I wish I had my good-luck coin in my pocket."

"Yeah?" Joe College again. "Why ain't you got it?"

"I left it in Westwaygo," Sergeant Eddie explained, "in the bus I used to drive."

THE barge grounded on a bar. The landing-ramp dropped forward into the shallow water and the small tank which was up in the bow bobbed out and wallowed ashore. The infantrymen either dropped over the sides of the barge or followed the tank on the ramp. There was no comfort in being near the armored vehicle though because it immediately became a lightning rod for artillery fire.

Other barges were spilling soldiers and armored equipment along the narrow strip of beach. The Navy, standing off shore, was lobbing shells over their heads. Doing a good job too, because the enemy guns began to quiet down. Before that happened the Japs got a hit on the tank but none of Engstrom's squad was killed. Jake Snyder, a rifle bullet through the meaty part of his thigh but missed the arteries and bones. Mostly it made him mad. Certainly it cured him of his seasickness and fear.

Eddie sent Jake over to the medical detachment to have them look at his wound. Jake came back in a minute. The Doc had just sprinkled sulphur in it and marked him "Duty." He couldn't have men with minor injuries cluttering up the place when life and death cases were apt to come in any minute.

An hour or so after sunrise the landing party had reached its objective. Orders were to dig in and wait for reinforcements. The Navy was going to go after more troops and equipment to help hold the beachhead.

Sergeant Eddie's squad added to the natural protective advantage of a huge fallen tree trunk and away over a year now."

"That was for our field hospital. Another coming. Duck!" The second bomb, none of them heard.

made themselves a cozy little home—a w-a-y-from-h-o-m-e as the tourist cabin ads used to say. A couple of American machine gun posts were on the left and half of a mortar battery on the right.

EDDIE ENGSTROM was a good non-commissioned officer, not too long on brains but a good man to carry out orders. He looked after his squad with just the right shade of paternal solicitude. They all liked him, even Joe College who grumbled about everything—his natural disposition bubbling to the top.

Eddie, 30, was the oldest man in the squad. He was also the biggest, the tallest man in the entire company for that matter, and he had hands like steam shovels.

Most of the boys had never been away from their fathers and mothers until the war came along. Their families were the substantial middle-strata citizens of Westwaygo. Jake Snyder's father was foreman at the bus line shops, Oscar Mahoney's dad ran the Westwaygo News. Lloyd Nelson was the son of the superintendent of schools, Jim Hilton's family worked for the city, Mr. Hilton as a policeman and his wife as secretary to the mayor. The mayor himself had a son in the outfit, Private Orman Berglund. Sergeant Eddie was the only one who didn't have parents living. The nearest thing to a relative that Eddie had was Mrs. Downing who ran the boarding house where he slept and had breakfast.

Many of the families attended the Swedish Lutheran Church of which Carl Peterson's father was the pastor. Carl, the only married man on the squad, was Eddie's best pal.

"Chin up, soldier," advised Eddie when he caught Carl gloom-ing. "Why ain't you in there pitching about Kirsten like you usually do when there's a bull session?" Kirsten was Carl's wife.

"Lemme alone," growled Carl.

"Sure. I just thought it might do you good to talk to somebody about that little house you're goin' to buy when you get back."

"No." Then all at once Carl's pent-up misery burst the flood gates. "I got a letter from Kirsten just before we left yesterday. She's goin' to have a baby."

"Swell." Eddie pounded his pal on the back. "That's what you wanted—" Eddie stopped. The sudden thought which had struck him blurted out. "But we been away over a year now."

"Yeah. Kirsten didn't want to tell me about it but you can't keep a thing like that secret—even with censors. Somebody would have written to one of the other guys sooner or later."

"Who?" Eddie began.

Carl shook his head. "I guess maybe I don't want to find out. I'll kill a Jap instead."

Eddie tried to think of something consoling. "Well it's all over now. You'll forget about it."

Carl looked at him incredulously. "Good Lord, Eddie, a wife is a part of a guy and when a thing like this happens—" He let the primitive black lightning shuttles through his soul for a moment. Then he crammed the spectre back into his lacerated breast. "Even if nobody ever fired a shot at us, this is sure a tough war for married guys."

Machine-gun fire clipped the leaves from left to right.

EDDIE was glad for the diversion. It disturbed Eddie to have his best friend unhappy. It seemed like an unnecessary addition to the physical discomforts of warfare. Why did women have to complicate men's lives—or vice versa? He supposed that probably girls got themselves in a state over guys. He had never had a girl himself excepting temporarily sometimes Saturday nights. In Eddie's lexicon women were strictly expendable.

"I know where I'd like to be," said Jake Snyder, mopping his forehead with a leaf—his handkerchief was worn out—"I'd like to be sittin' on the dunes out at Lakeview Beach."

"Yeah?" from Joe College.

"What's Lakeview Beach got that's different from here?"

Jake was practically inarticulate he was so anxious to tell him. "There's clean sand there and water without any salt in it. No bugs, neither. No malaria. No snakes. Lakeview Beach is heaven."

"That," said Joe, "I would have to see."

The constant, buzzing hum of the insects was being slowly augmented by a deeper, sustained reverberation.

"Take cover!" warned Eddie. "Planes coming."

Crump!

"Not ours," repeated Jake. "That was meant for our field hospital back there. Another coming. Duck!"

That second bomb none of them heard.

Rate Missouri Hams as Best

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20—(P)—The question of which county in Missouri still produces the best country hams remains unsettled. University of Missouri alumni in Washington sat down Sunday to decide the matter. They are generously of hams from Audrain, Boone, Callaway and Lincoln counties and then decided to sidestep the vital question by proclaiming that Missouri country hams are the best in the world.

C. Herschel Schooley, formerly of Mexico, Mo., and president of the M.U. alumni chapter arranged the breakfast. It was prepared and served by another Missourian, Ed Sheehy, formerly manager of a Jefferson City, Mo., hotel.

Mitchell White, editor of the Mexico, Mo., Ledger, sent the Audrain county ham. Robert E. Lee Hill, Columbia, secretary of the Missouri Bankers' Association, submitted the Boone county ham. The sample from Callaway county came from Paul Truitt of Millersburg, and the Lincoln county ham from the farm of Rep. Clarence Cannon.

After the breakfast the diners discarded the idea of voting and declared that all hams entered were of "such uniformly supreme flavor and excellence as to permit no award under the evidence than a merited and deserved tie for first place."

Earlier the group of 100 had proclaimed that all Missouri hams "are backed, favored, supported and endorsed" against all challenging hams.

H. J. (Jack) Blanton, editor of the Monroe County Appeal, was going to send a ham from his county, but he wrote that he was unable to find a real Monroe county ham that would be worthy of the occasion.

Waged Fight on Communism

NEW YORK, Nov. 20—(P)—An article in the first edition of the new American Mercury says the late James V. Forrestal spent at least $150,000 of privately collected money to fight Communism in Europe.

It said Forrestal, the nation's first secretary of defense, turned to his friends for financial help in the crusade after spending large sums of his own money.

The magazine also said that just before his suicide leap at the Bethesda (Md.) naval hospital, he was not allowed to see a Roman Catholic priest.

The article, written by William Bradford Huie, said Forrestal and his friends sent $50,000 to a French Communist leader as a bribe to call off a transportation strike.

Another time, Huie wrote, Forrestal collected $100,000 in private money to fight Communist propaganda in the postwar Italian elections.

When Forrestal suffered a nervous breakdown and went to the hospital, Huie said, he asked to see a priest, Monsignor Maurice J. Sheehy of Catholic university, Washington.

Huie said Monsignor Sheehy called six times to see Forrestal, but each time was told to come back later. Before he could visit Forrestal, the latter had killed himself in a window leap.

Huie said Forrestal, whose father was a Catholic, had drifted away from the church, but listed himself as a Catholic when he entered Bethesda.

The writer quoted Msgr. Sheehy as saying "Had I been allowed to see my friend, Jim Forrestal, receive him back in the church, and put his mind at ease with the oldest and most reliable medicine known to man, he would be alive today."

To Direct Play

She taught dancing for many years and danced in professional ballet corps in grand operas and has acted and directed numerous plays. Her assistant director for the Playhouse production is Mrs. Otis W. Wiley, who has also had wide experience in play direction and acted as properties manager for two of the club's presentations.

and business is going on as usual in the retail trade. Sales are mounting in department and specialty stores, and total retail trade is pulled down only by sluggishness in "big ticket items," like automobile. Even here the market has still not tested consumer reaction to the 1951 models although a spokesman for the National Automobile Dealers Association says federal credit curbs will cut sales in half or more by the end of the year.

The fact that aluminum for civilian use will be cut back 35 per cent Jan. 1 has not prevented some merchants from offering aluminum cooking utensils in sales at attractive prices to clear out top-heavy inventories.

No Panicky Buying By all reports the public just hasn't gone into a tailspin panic of buying because of control possibilities as was done in the July-August war scare hoarding spree.

For one thing prices still are high at retail. Average wholesale prices hit a new all-time high last week, the bureau of labor statistics reported, and that presages more boosts in retail later.

"Operation Santa Claus" started late in October. It was evident then the Korean war wasn't almost over after all. U. S. troops wouldn't be home by Christmas.

Chairman of the shopping organization set up by the American women in Japan is Mrs. Anthony F. Story of Los Angeles. She's the wife of General MacArthur's personal pilot.

Hundred Orders A Day Operations began in Tokyo and its great port city of Yokohama. About 100 orders a day are being handled.

In most of Korea soldiers were given a list of gifts available. All they had to do was fill out an order blank.

It was impossible, however, to get order blanks to some forward units. They were advised to write "Operation Santa Claus," enclosing whatever they wished to spend and a description of the person who would receive the gifts.

In Japan the women volunteers make out customs declarations, complete other necessary formalities and scour the shops to find what the soldiers ordered.

Most popular gift? Noritake China. More than 250 sets have been sent already.

With one went this message: "Just a tribute to your cooking, darling." Another soldier asked that his card read: "Here's that china you always wanted, Mom."

Troops are remembering each other through "Operation Santa Claus" too. Two buddies had the forecast higher taxes and tighter credit controls and said: "But taxes and credit measures are much more equitable than inflation itself. They are also much more compatible with our free enterprise economy than are price and wage controls and rationing."

The Bridge

CANTIC, Que. —(AP)—When it comes to holding the bridge, Horatius should take a back seat to the McGee family in this village 45 miles south of Montreal. As operators of the swing equipment, the McGees hold the Canadian National Railway's swing bridge across the Richelieu here. Even the railway officials call it "McGee's bridge," though officially it's the Richelieu bridge.

Jim McGee, now 94, took over the span in 1898. He was succeeded by his son D'Arcy, recently retired at 65. Brother Charles followed but when Charles retires in 13 years there will be no new McGee to take over the job.

Gets Money Back Bandit Snatched

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 20.—(AP)—William A. McCoy was on his way to the bank today with a deposit from his store in the Country Club Plaza on Kansas City's fashionable southside.

His money bag contained something like $6,000 in receipts, $3,600 of it in cash.

As he started to step from the curb to cross a street a smallish fellow grabbed his left arm.

The little fellow drew a revolver and pressed it into McCoy's stomach. The money bag changed hands.

A car drew up to the curb. The bandit, money bag in hand, scurried into the car which lunged forward with a burst of speed as it rounded a corner.

On the corner swing, a door of the car swung open. The little bandit grabbed for his own safety. The money bag fell to the pavement, thrown from the car by centrifugal force.

McCoy retrieved the money bag and continued to the bank where he made his deposit.

Anxious to Keep Rent Control

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Chairman Spence (D-Ky.) of the House Banking committee said today that President Truman wants legislation at the short session of Congress to extend rent control until March 31, 1951.

Mr. Truman's idea, Spence told reporters after a White House call, is to get the brief extension now and then give the new Congress opportunity to explore in January "the whole question of rent controls in order to decide what's needed in the future."

The law as now written expires Dec. 31, 1950, except in communities which voluntarily keep the curbs for six more months.

the column. "But they didn't beat them to the punch. We caught them by surprise."

The column rumbled on into the deserted and bomb-razed crossroads town of Kapsan, knocking down a stone archway as it entered.

Six miles north of the city, Maj. Gen. David G. Barr, Seventh division commander, caught up with the column.

"It makes you proud to be an American," he said "to see our people perform like this."

The column halted for the night nine miles beyond Kapsan. At dawn Monday it resumed the march through the snow.

A long supply line stretched out over the icy roads behind the border-bound troops. C-119 flying box cars dropped 32,000 pounds of fuel and rations to the troops.

Elsewhere in the far north there were indications the Communists were building up their forces to try to stem the United Nations advance. Night fighters attacked a 50-truck convoy moving south toward a Red stronghold about 25 miles northwest of Changjin reservoir. Units of the U. S. First Marine division were cautiously moving up both sides of the reservoir.

Other Red troops were spotted moving southward to bulwark North Koreans facing the ROK capital division on the east coast. U. S. air support and the guns of the cruiser St. Paul helped the capital division push its right flank toward the Soviet border. 16 miles beyond Myongchon.

The left flank, nine miles beyond Myongchon, beat off a counterattack by a Red battalion.

Chinese Communists, shocked by the might of U. N. firepower, were digging in on a new defense line on the northwest front.

Their withdrawal permitted the ROK Second corps to move up 1 1/2 to 3 miles, straightening the U. N. line. The ROK Second corps front now runs from a point about eight miles east of Tokchon, along a line about three and a half miles north of Tokchon to a point just short of Kanglong.

Balls of fire bounced up and down on the roof with thunderous explosions.

The high voltage burned out the television set and blew off one of the knobs before the Indiana and Michigan Electric Company shut off the power.

The telephone burned out.

A glove lying in the yard burst into flames.

Credit restrictions resulting from the Defense Production Act of 1950 limit Farm Housing and Farm Ownership loans made by the Farmers Home Administration where the loan contains funds for dwelling construction, repair or remodeling in excess of $2,500, according to advice received by Oscar H. DeWolf, County Supervisor for Pettis county.

Where the loan for dwelling repairs, remodeling or construction is between $2,500 and $5,000 the maximum loan is limited to 95% for veterans and 90% for non-veterans. Material and labor furnished by the applicant apply as a credit against the restriction. However, these restrictions do not apply to other farm buildings DeWolf added.

However loans in excess of $5,000 for dwellings are more severely limited by the restrictions.

Mr. DeWolf further commented that Farm Housing loans can be made only to farm owners who are unable to get the credit they need from other sources, and the applicant must be recommended by a local County FHA Committee composed of Arthur H. Meyer, James A. Harvey and Carl E. Johnson.

The interest rate is 4%, and the loan may run from 5 to 33 years. They may be made to repair or remodel, or build new farm dwellings or other farm buildings, install heating or water systems, and electricity.

Applications for Farm Housing loans may be placed with Oscar H. DeWolf, County Supervisor, whose office is located in the Post Office building, Sedalia, Missouri.

Mystery Farm Pictures in Central Missouri---

Is this your farm?

Most of the readers of the Democrat-Capital have been following this series of weekly Mystery Farm Pictures with considerable interest.

The pictures that appear in this space in Monday's Democrat and Tuesday morning's Capital were taken sometime ago by an aerial photographer. The pictures were not shot with the knowledge of whose farm it was. It was a random job; a picture here and a picture there.

To date there have been over sixty-two Mystery Farm Pictures published, most of which have been claimed by the occupants and owners of the various farms. Yours may be next. Watch for it! If you see your farm in the Mystery Farm space, come in and claim your picture at the Democrat-Capital news room on the second floor of the Democrat-Capital building. No strings attached; it's yours for the asking. The mystery farm depicted in the Democrat November 6 and the Capital November 7 has been identified by its owner George R. Wilkerson, who made the identification in the Democrat-Capital office last Wednesday. The farm is located one-half mile east of U. S. highway 50 and one-half mile north of Pettis county route 1. Mr. Wilkerson utilizes his 356 acres in general farming and the raising of livestock. The farm is occupied by Mr. Wilkerson and his wife. They have one daughter, Mrs. James E. McNeil of 1123 West Seventh street in Sedalia. Mr. and Mrs. Wilkerson are members of the Farm Bureau.

Missouri 4-H Champs Go to Chicago

STATE championship honors for 1950 have been won by four 4-H Club members for outstanding work in the National Safety, Farm and Home Electric, Field Crops and Tractor Maintenance programs. Their awards are all-expense trips to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Nov. 26-30. Brief outlines of their records follow:

Wilbern Hayes, Jr., 16, of Houston, found that plenty of hard work and diligent study helped him reach the top in the State 4-H Tractor Maintenance program. Acquiring the know-how to care for and operate the family tractor meant considerable savings in time and money, too. Wilbern has been a club member for seven years. Although entering tractor maintenance recently, he and other 4-H members have quickly profited from a course taken by Wilbern's father at the State Tractor Clinic. With Mr. Hayes as leader, Wilbern was able to repair and run the tractor efficiently during several weeks of his father's illness. Standard Oil Co. (Ind.) provided Wilbern's trip award.

4-H means "No Accidents" to Nancy Sue Toomay, 16, of Brainer, State Farm and Home Safety champion. Her efforts to make home and farm a safer place in which to live and work, won for Nancy the General Motors' trip award. Her brother's death in a highway accident sparked a genuine desire to do all she could for the cause of public safety. This has led to more than 40 public speeches in behalf of safety at community and 4-H meetings, schools and over the radio. At home, Nancy has carried safety to a maximum by cleaning up rubbish, properly storing tools and machinery, and repairing steps, fences, and gates. She promoted church safety by removing inflammable trash from the basement. During seven years in 4-H, Nancy followed safety rules in carrying out all of her projects.

Of practical and lasting value to Edner Rudolph, 17, of Savannah, is the down-to-earth knowledge gained in the 4-H Farm and Home Electric program, which also won for him highest state honors. His plans for utilizing electricity and electrical equipment on the home farm has resulted in more convenience and leisure hours. Some of the improvements he has installed are electric pig brooders which have reduced litter mortality, and an air compressor-paint spray combination used for painting two tractors, a hay baler, and a low hay trailer. Edner has electrified everything from the cement mixer to the chicken house. Future plans include an automatic electric water heater for the dairy herd. With a record of two years as Junior leader, he continues to attend county-wide farm and home electric project group meetings. Westinghouse Educational Foundation provided Edner's trip award to the Club Congress.

The thrill of being singled out as state winner in the Field Crops program will never be forgotten by William Ficken, 21, of Windsor. Study of new cultivation methods and seed treatment enabled him to do an outstanding job. During his seven years in 4-H William raised oats, wheat, corn and lespedeza. His corn project has increased from five acres in 1944 to 107 in 1950. William has won noteworthy honors on his many exhibits. He has served in many offices in his club and is Junior leader. International Harvester provided William's Club Congress trip.

All of these activities were conducted under the direction of the Extension Service of the State Agricultural College and USDA co-operating.

New Grade A Dairy Barn For Lees

The building being checked above by Dr. M. E. Gouge, Dairy Inspector, is the new 20 x 40 Grade A dairy unit on the Riley Lee farm 2 miles northeast of Beaman.

Dr. Gouge said he found everything in order and nothing needed to be added or corrected to make the Lees eligible to produce and market Grade A milk. They are selling to Freeze-Risser and Dr. Gouge said this made the 58th Grade A dairy producing for the Sedalia market.

The plan Mr. Lee used was obtained from Dr. Gouge. This plan was drawn up by the State Board of Health and the Missouri

College of Agriculture to satisfy the St. Louis milk ordinance, which at present is the most stringent in the state. Copies of the plan are also available at the County Extension office.

The Lees are members of the Pettis County Balanced Farming Association and had the assistance of Associate County Agent Merle Vaughan and of Extension Agricultural Engineer Herman Hall of Columbia in locating this unit and in planning for other new farm building to it in with it. Mr. Lee, his brother and father-in-law did all the work on the construction of this building and have done a credible job.

You can't buy the Farmers' Almanac on a newsstand. Geiger Bros. sell it as an advertising medium to banks, insurance companies, feed companies, undertakers and a liquor store in Atlantic City.

Geiger also mails out 1,000 copies a year to people who write in that they can't find a copy anywhere, but are most anxious to read the almanac.

People also ask Geiger hundreds of questions. A woman in Hume, Mo., asked where she could get an asthma remedy called "Himalaya," which comes in a "square, brown pint bottle and costs $7.50."

Farmers Almanac Looks Same But Is Modernized

By Rip Watson

NEWARK, N.J., Nov. 18.—(AP)—From a high-gear factory in this bustling industrial city soon will be coming forth a quiet reminder to America's rural population that it's time to begin thinking of next year's harvest.

Now in preparation is the 1951 edition of the Farmers' Almanac, with its long range weather forecasts and how-to-do-it tips for the farm family. The 133-year-old publication reaches more than 700,000 of them.

The edition "for the year of our Lord 1951" looks as much like its predecessors as the publisher, Geiger Bros., can make it. The same woodcut of a threshing scene adorns the cover. The upper left corner has the familiar punched hole so it can be hung by string to the walls of the nation's farmhouses.

It has the same nostalgic appearance, but some of the material differs sharply from the 1818 almanac which is thought to have evolved from the famous Poor Richard's Almanac published by Benjamin Franklin before the American revolution.

Nowadays the almanac advises its readers how to shop for fabrics, instead of telling housewives how to weave them. The 1951 almanac instructs the reader, with benefit of pictures, the proper way to tie the "new Windsor knot."

A new feature next year will be a column of homemaking tips called wifeyavers. These are given a careful once-over by the wife of the editor, Ray Geiger, whose only farming is done in the garden in his suburban home.

Geiger has been editor of the almanac since 1937. He edited the publication through World War II from various Pacific islands, to maintain unbroken a chain stretching back to David Young's first Farmers' Almanac in 1818.

Astronomer and Teacher
Young, who described himself on the cover of his almanac as a philom—lover of learning—was an astronomer, poet and teacher in Morristown, N.J. He had been calculator of the positions of the planets for another almanac when he decided to put out his own.

Through an old letter he found in a desk in Morristown, Geiger has traced the almanac's transfer from Young to a man named Samuel Hart Wright after Young's death in 1852.

The letter, written by Berlin Hart Wright, Samuel's son, told how the elder Wright read of Young's death in a New York newspaper. He went to the Young home, got from the widow a list of subscribers to Young's astronomical calculations and set himself up as Young's successor.

Samuel did the calculating for the almanac until his death in 1875, when Berlin Hart Wright took over. The younger Wright continued the predictions until the 1930's, then yielded to his son-in-law, Roland E. Hart. Now Hart's children are getting interested in the calculations which form the basis for the famous weather predictions. It appears Geiger Bros. will not lack for predictions for some time to come.

The weather predictions have been spectacularly accurate twice in recent years. This year's almanac correctly foretold the September storms which lashed the Atlantic coast. A dozen years ago the almanac predicted the exact dates of the famous 1938 hurricane.

The weather predictions are a regular feature for almanac readers. Other features, such as jokes, poems, tips and homespun axioms, are changed from year to year.

The weather predictions were dropped from 1852 until 1875. It was the considered opinion of Samuel Hart Wright that such predictions in almanacs "should be regarded as mere guesswork, entitled to no confidence."

The positions of the various planets for the forthcoming year, tide tables, postage rate tables and the chart of weights and measures are included every year.

Pictures on Plates.
The typography is almost exactly the same. The same pictures decorate the pages, except that they're now done on zinc plates instead of the old wood cuts. The cuts wore out some years ago and could not be reproduced faithfully. The same old threshing scene is used for the front cover everywhere but in Ulster county, N.Y., where the people won't accept the almanac as genuine unless the front is decorated by a picture of a rooster. No one seems to know why this is so.

'Roots' of American Life Take to Wheels

10 Years of Mass Migration, Biggest in History
Hits Children of United States Hard

AMERICA ON THE MOVE: Some of the millions of Americans involved in a decade of mass migration, these Kentuckians left their home "roots" to travel north and join husbands and fathers

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — (NEA) —
"Roots" in the tradition of American life today have become wheels.

Since 1940 U. S. citizens have engaged in the biggest mass migration the country has ever experienced. In this process the American family has achieved a brand new mobility which has suddenly become a major factor in U. S. living.

Its impact is most serious on the country's youth. It is making them a displaced generation.

The full sociological import of this phenomenon is revealed for the first time in a remarkable series of reports just completed for President Truman's Mid-century White House Conference on Children and Youth, to be held in December. Compiled by experts in each state, the reports are the most comprehensive study of American youth ever made.

Only a part of the mass migration was caused by the war such as the movement to and from military posts, shipyards and airplane plants. A great re-location of industry has caused part of it. The plain urge to try to find a better place to live has been an important cause.

The west coast states of California, Washington and Oregon increase in population. Some southern states picked up as much as 20 per cent.

Even within states which have had only normal increases there have been great population shifts; from big city to small, one-industry rural communities; from farm to city; from city to city; and from the hearts of cities to sprawling suburban communities.

Unfortunately, none of the facilities so vitally important to the normal, healthy growth of kids has become as mobile as the American family.

A boy in a big Nebraska city doesn't even have his own desk in the school he now attends. The class is so jammed the teacher has difficulty remembering the names of all her students. The rural school he attended last year now only has four students and will probably be closed. His family, like a lot of others in that state, moved to the city for greater opportunity. Multiply that by a hundred thousand or so, and you get the full national story.

The same is true of playgrounds, public health services and other community facilities. Another youngster was brought to a big Ohio city by his family to get out of the south. He has to take a bus to the playground four miles away. It's so jammed it's not much fun going there anyway. Back home he had five acres to roam on.

It is just as hard on the children of the permanent residents who are being crowded out of their places of play.

There are plenty of other disruptive effects of family moving on a boy's life. Billy was considered a neighborhood "square" for a long time just because he didn't know how to play "knuckle down," the Chicago version of marbles. He thought he had learned all the types of marble games from the four previous cities he had lived in.

The Displaced Generation: 2

Here's the second of five dispatches that tell what is happening to America's children under the impact of a revolution in our way of life more violent than any other generation has ever faced. They're based on an exclusive preview of the comprehensive report to be aired at the Mid-century White House Conference on Children and Youth next month.

He never did make up the grade he lost because Chicago schools had a different system of teaching reading, from two-homes-ago, in the city's school where he had learned to read. Even Sunday school was a strain for him because it was so different from the last three he had attended.

And of course you must multiply Billy's case by the millions. For instance, a survey in one neighborhood of a city showed more than one-half of the young families with children had made two major moves since the parents had married. Many of the families had lived in four different cities before landing there. And many heads of those families admitted that they were considering another move.

Variations of figures showing this same situation are reported from almost every state in the union. It's not hard to see that the total effect of this mass family movement is a new and serious social problem in the country.

In addition to extreme difficulty youngsters have adjusting to such things as new school standards and methods and the rules of games, there are the intangible attitudes and customs which take a long time to fathom. It's an unnatural strain on a growing child.

It's a strain on parents to adjust, too. An Illinois doctor explains: "It takes an extremely close-knit, stable family to survive the demoralizing effects of two or three major moves."

Many contributing causes are given for this new mobility of the family. Transportation is better than it ever was. Nearly every family has an automobile. It's physically easy to make a move. The war uprooted millions and showed them some new places. It wiped out old fears of pulling up stakes and moving to a new place. The feeling that a man is a "drifter" if he changes jobs frequently, or after he is 40, now appears almost non-existent.

Tomorrow: Drafted for the crusade their elders were afraid to start.

Ensilage Cutter Homemade

Ensilage Cutter Homemade Job
DES MOINES—(AP)—A self-propelled ensilage cutter has been in operation on the Charles Shields farm south of Wales. Shields' son, Dean, used a number of car, truck and tractor parts in converting a conventional tractor-drawn, two-row cutter.

Shields estimated the cost of his new machine at about $1,000. It moves through the field at about four miles an hour and cuts from 25 to 30 tons of ensilage an hour. Shields says it is more readily maneuvered than the tractor-drawn type and easier to operate.

The 30-year-old Dean, a World War II veteran, also designed his machine so that, with a simple changing of parts, it can be used for a hay chopper.

Sooners Will Likely Favor A Bowl Bid

Stretched Streak Of Victories to 29 By Defeating MU

By Skipper Patrick

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 20.—(P)—Will the Oklahoma Sooners accept a bowl bid this season?

Right now they look like the No. 1 bowl attraction. But just a few weeks ago University of Oklahoma President G. L. Cross frowned on the idea of another post-season game for the Sooners.

He said he hoped they would not accept an invitation because it would mean the loss of school time. However, he left it "up to the boys."

The squad will take a vote any day now and the odds are strong they'll favor a New Year's Day game. The sophomores should make the difference.

There are 36 sophomores—this is Oklahoma's rebuilding year—on the Sooner Varsity and those lads will be looking for something new to conquer. And since the juniors and seniors have been playing with the enthusiasm of rookies all year they, too, undoubtedly will string along with the sophs.

The Sooners have played in four bowl games and won three including the last two Sugar Bowl classics.

Oklahoma, which stretched its modern victory streak for major schools to 29 games by smothering Missouri 41-7 last Saturday, has beaten just about everything the midlands have to offer except one team and they'll take a crack at that one Saturday.

Nebraska Next Game

Coming up at Norman Saturday will be Nebraska and its great sophomore halfback Bobby Reynolds. Reynolds hasn't been stopped all season, its second among the nation's scorers with 134 and is a top man rushing.

A Nebraska victory would mean a co-championship with Oklahoma, something the Sooners shared twice with Kansas (1946 and 1947) and a demand for the Cornhuskers for January 1 bowl participation.

Oklahoma has won five conference games, Nebraska has won four and lost one, having been upset by Colorado.

There'll be other activities in the conference. At Columbia, Mo., on Thanksgiving Day the Kansas Jayhawks and Missouri Tigers will get together for the 39th time since their series started in 1891.

Saturday, Iowa State closes its season against Arizona in Tucson and Kansas State plays Oklahoma A. and M. at Stillwater.

Week-end games followed script. In addition to the Oklahoma victory, Kansas routed Kansas State, 47-7, Nebraska, with Reynolds scoring a touchdown and two conversions, beat Iowa State 20-13, Colorado bumped Oregon 31-7.

Charles Dickens

A Christmas Carol

Illustrated by Walt Scott

For Ambulance Service, Ph 8

"I have endeavored in this ghostly little book to raise the Ghost of an Idea, which shall not put my readers out of humor with themselves, with each other, with the season, or with me. Your faithful friend and servant, Charles Dickens, December, 1843."

With that preface, Charles Dickens, who loved people and loved Christmas, began the story of Ebenezer Scrooge, who hated people and—strange as it sounds—hated Christmas...

... And of Scrooge's wage slave, Bob Cratchit, who loved his little son, Tiny Tim.

Fire-Blasted Wreckage

Only scattered debris and a fire-blackened motor remain of one of two Air Force planes that crashed on the Sells Papago Indian reservation 50 miles west of Tucson, Ariz. A B-29 tanker and a B-50 bomber collided in the air and plunged to earth during a practice refueling operation. The tanker may have exploded in the air. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Chestnut Blight Hits Italy

AVELLINO, Italy — (P) — Some 58,000 American taxpayers' dollars are being used to fight a blight attacking Italy's chestnut trees. That is an insignificant amount against the more than $1,500,000,000 in European Recovery funds already poured into the Italian economy. But the job of keeping Italy's chestnut groves in good health is far from insignificant.

This city of 30,000 in the foothills southeast of Naples is the center of one of the regions of Italy that thrive on chestnut trees. The well-to-do count their wealth in acres of chestnut timber. Processing of the timber and the fruit give the poor work and food. From the chestnut trees come poles for communication lines, props for grapevines, wood for window frames, furniture and even farmer's carts. The chestnut itself is the merchandise of countless peddlers on city street corners whose charcoal roasting fires are a magnet for children and grownups.

Dried chestnuts are ground into flour for puddings, cakes and even bread. Italians also call the chestnut the poor man's bread.

Americans have determined that the blight is the same one that in recent years wiped out most of America's native chestnuts.

Clifford Denham (above) was arrested when he attracted attention in a card club by flashing money that bore a hole in it. Police found $90 in his possession, all holed. ### Yanks Prepare For Trouble In Europe---

Because the present U. S. supply ports of Hamburg and Bremen are too exposed to a sudden Communist attack from the east, 2,000 U. S. technicians and traffic experts have been sent to Bordeaux, France, to build a new emergency railway lifeline for American military supplies. The line will run from La Pallice and Bordeaux, pass southeast of Paris to Kehl and enter Germany 80 miles from Frankfurt, headquarters of the U. S. occupation government. At the same time, the U. S. Army, in its biggest operation since occupation began, is shifting its important supply bases and lines away from exposed areas near the frontiers of Russian-held East Germany and Communist-ruled Czechoslovakia. In addition to Hamburg, Bremen and Frankfurt, big U. S. supply bases near Red-held territory are at Furth, Ingolstadt and Furstenfeldbruck.

Hal Boyle Reports from Korea

By Hal Boyle

WITH U.S. 8TH ARMY, Korea —(P)—It was on a day when the whole American front surged forward.

The thick dust hung like a yellow fog over every road, and under the dust, men and machines moved up in pursuit of the enemy. At every road intersection or bridge detour the long elastic lines of vehicles jammed together like a folding accordion.

I stepped out of a command post to hitch a ride just as an armored column ground to a halt. The dust settled and there in front of me was a weapons carrier that had been converted into an open air ambulance.

A young medic was seated on one of two litters that stuck out of the rear of the ambulance. The other litter was empty. I held up a thumb and the young medic said:

"Climb up, old man—if you can make it."

I made it. A medic inside the ambulance then said to my neighbor on the other litter:

"That's a nice cigar the man is smoking, Junior."

So I pulled out my last cigars and passed them around. Junior bit a big chunk out of the end of his and lit it ineptly. Junior was a big boy with a rough and ready tongue. But his close-cropped hair cut and the tiredness in his eyes made him look no more than 18.

"Come on, Red," he said, turning to the driver, "let's get on with the war."

Red hesitated a moment, then swung the ambulance out into the road. We went several hundred yards up the motionless column and met a Jeep containing a military policeman. He was a small dark man in shiny boots and helmet. His uniform was neatly pressed, his pistol holster and belt were highly polished and a bright scarlet scarf shielded his throat up to the chin.

His task of keeping the straggling vehicles from snarling the road had worn his temper raw.

"Get back in line, damn you," he shouted. Red obediently pulled back into the halted column. But Junior said, "We got the right of way. We're going up after the wounded."

"There aren't any wounded up there yet," snapped the MP. As he drove slowly by, Junior called loud enough for him to hear:

"I wonder how little Red Riding Hood figured that out. No MP ever gets that close to the front." A minute later the Jeep came back up the road and the small military cop said, "Follow me. I'll try to get you out of here."

We rode about a mile. Red then pulled back into line as the MP dismounted to clean the path of some vehicles that had massed in double column.

"If I ever see that MP at the front I'll shoot him," said Junior loudly, patting his rifle. The other medics laughed but the little MP never turned his head.

"Right there is where the gooks overrun our aid station," said Junior, pointing at a draw in the hills. "We were right near the artillery. They were all around us before we knew it—and they got most of us."

"See that rock up there? A gook up there was firing at me. I tried to get back at him with my carbine. I fired 60 rounds at him and missed every time. Then a Doughboy next to me lifted up his rifle and knocked off the gook with one shot."

"I guess that's when I broke down. I just laid on the ground and shook. I guess they'd kept us up here too long. They sent me back to the hospital for a rest. But my nerves are okay now again—I guess. It sure looks peaceful up here now."

The road ahead was clear. The little MP climbed into his Jeep and backed up behind us to tell us we could go ahead.

"Well, I guess little Red Riding Hood is going back to the rear to beat up some more soldiers," Junior said loudly. "It's the only fun an MP ever has. But if I ever catch him at the front I'll—"

Junior paused because the MP had walked around and was standing in front of him. His features were working in wordless anger. But as he glared into Junior's defiant eyes something seemed to calm him.

Slowly and deliberately the MP took off his bright scarlet scarf. A wide and terrible scar stretched from his chin down across his throat and disappeared beneath his jacket. It was the kind of a scar a large mortar or artillery shell fragment leaves. And it was only freshly healed.

The MP wiped the dust sweat from his face with the scarf. He rolled the scarf into a ball and tossed it into Junior's lap. Then he stepped back and smiled.

"Good luck, son," he said. As our vehicle started up the long road, one of the medics said to Junior:

"What did you say you were going to do to that MP if you ever catch him up front?"

"Shut up!" said Junior. And nobody looked at Junior for a long time—for fear he might begin to cry.

Prisoners Of the Reds Come Back

IMMENSEE, Switzerland—(P)—Three Swiss Roman Catholic missionaries have returned to Switzerland after three years in the Chinese Communist prison in Manchuria for alleged collaboration with the Japanese. The three priests, Fathers Friedrich Hort, Johann Imesch and Franz Senn, reported on their experiences in guarded language, evidently fearful of harming eight other Swiss priests still imprisoned under sentences ranging from five to 12 years.

"We suffered greatly from the unclean habits of the other prisoners," Father Hort said. "There was an unimaginable plague of insects, vermin and nearly all the priests caught typhus—some of them two or three times. We were not ill-treated by the authorities," Father Hort said, "but we suffered from the malice of the other prisoners."

A system of public confession was introduced at the prison, at which every prisoner had to confess his crimes and errors and demonstrate that he was turning towards Communism.

"Under this system, the other prisoners would make false accusations against us, in order to enlist the sympathy of the prison authorities," Father Hort said.

Carl Schaffrin, 217 Perry St., St. Charles, Mo., says there are some folks in this old world who feel good and there are other folks who feel bad. The folks who feel good he wants to congratulate, but for the folks who feel mighty bad he says he wants them to read what he has to say and then take a word of advice—take HADACOL if you suffer from a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron.

Here is what Mr. Schaffrin has to say about HADACOL since it overcame the effects of such deficiencies in his system: "I have been a shoe cutter for over 32 years—I now work for the Boyd Welsh Shoe Co. in St. Louis. For quite some time now I haven't had any appetite at all—seemed like I didn't have enough energy to do my work. I was tired all the time—and really didn't enjoy doing anything. It affected my work too. Then I heard how other folks who took HADACOL had increased their appetite and seemed to have a limitless amount of energy. I tried HADACOL and it is amazing what a change it has made. Now I feel like eating everything on the table, my disposition is 100% better and my work—in fact, everything I do I now enjoy. For an entirely new outlook on life I recommend HADACOL."

Why HADACOL Gives Such Fine Results

HADACOL does not bring symptomatic relief. HADACOL now makes it possible to actually relieve the cause of nagging pains, lack of energy, lack of appetite, and a general run-down weakened condition when these are due to such deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron in your system.

HADACOL not only supplies deficient systems with extra quantities of Vitamins B1, B2, Iron, and Niacin but also helpful amounts of important Calcium and Phosphorus—elements so vital to help maintain good health and physical fitness.

Why These Vitamins and Minerals Come In Liquid Form

There's a very good reason why HADACOL comes in special liquid form. These precious Vitamins and Minerals are easily and quickly absorbed into the blood stream this way—ready to go right to work. A big improvement is often noticed within a few days.

Now don't keep on wondering if HADACOL will help you. If you have such deficiencies—HADACOL WILL HELP YOU—just as it has thousands of grateful souls who were so troubled. GIVE IT A FAIR TRIAL! Remember HADACOL is sold on a strict money-back guarantee. And so inexpensive. Trial-size bottle, only $1.25. Large family or hospital size, $3.50.
